has

nice guys and people might buy into that. I do wonder why we deserve another bite of the cherry. It's like 10 years hasn't gone by!

"It's important to us for this album to be liked. Hopefully, people just enjoy the songs and think they're good."

With sales of the album alone set to reach the 100,000 mark by the time the official chart comes out on Sunday, it's fair to say Take That aren't just liked - they're adored by the great British public.

And it's easy to see why their comeback has worked, while All Saints' hasn't.

Firstly, they are not trying to pretend to be something they're not. Music-wise, each band member has helped to write Beautiful World's tracks and they all take a turn on lead vocals.

Jason's face lights up when I compliment him on Wooden Boat, the folky effort which closes the album.

"It's a nice song, isn't it?" he says with a smile. Very.

They've still got the dance moves and magic that made them huge before, but Beautiful World is far more of a mature creation - as is the single.

Laugh

Their comeback single is set to retain the top spot, too.

"We never realised Patience would be the first single," says Mark. "We played it to the record company and they started jumping around saying: 'That's it, that's the single!' We were like: 'Really?'"

Another reason why the comeback is a success is - as Jason said - they are such nice chaps.

Gary is still the natural leader but, judging by the way he larked about on their private plane this week, he's also a good laugh to be around. Mark is the happiest-looking man in pop. Always chirpy, he talks about his solo work with the same sense of love as his band efforts.

I tell him he should have released as a single solo track Close To The Edge.

He chuckles: "Maybe I should've thrown it into the mix for the band album. They'd never have known."

Jason and Howard Donald, 33, are the most reserved members of the band.

Howard admits he needs a bit of a pick-me-up during promotional duties. Clutching a Starbucks cup, he whispers to me: "I couldn't do the signings without my coffee. It's got Red Bull in it to keep me going!"

And despite a stunning show at London's Abbey Road studios last week, Jason confides: "I wish I'd enjoyed it more. I felt really wooden with nerves."

Keep those butterflies in check tonight, Jason!

● An Audience With Take That... Live is on ITV1 tonight at 9.30pm.

MILLION DOLLARS... BUT AT A SUPERMARKET PRICE

that you'll want

IF you're still searching for The One, girls, then look no further.

No, it's not the man of your dreams. But it's very close to your heart and just the thing to give you a lift . . . It's the perfect bra!

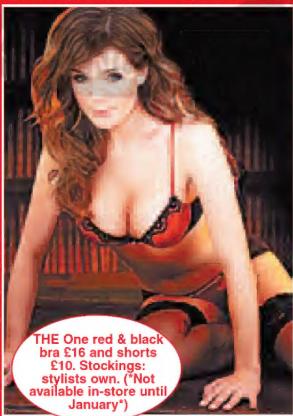

Brought to us by lingerie supremo Michelle Mone, of Ultimo fame, The One is part of a cheap-but-chic range called Michelle for George available at many ASDA supermarkets.

Silk

So why not just pop out – if you'll pardon the expression – and buy one?

Daily Star doll Danielle Lloyd, 22, was thrilled with the pure silk fabric and the show-stopping cleavage provided by a gel insert which is 64% lighter than in other bras.

She was also delighted that

THE One red & black bra £16 and shorts £10. Stockings: stylites own. (Not available in-store until January*) attention to detail doesn't just stop at the technology. Cute bows, sequins and pretty trims adorn all the bras in the range, as well as many of the knickers and strings.

By Clare Taylor

Try "Feathers" for sheer festive fun or "Geisha" for a tempting touch of the Orient. The range takes inspiration from around the world.

The One itself is available in colours including ivory, red and nude to suit your mood and choice of clothes.

All bras in the range come in at £16 with bottoms starting at just £7.

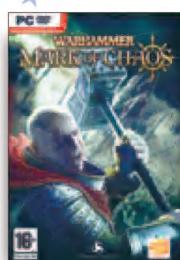

A total of 258 ASDA stores will be stocking the brand.

And, who knows, wear The One for that special date and you could also snare The One Of Your Dreams.

After all, what mere man could possibly resist?

Just Jane

JANE O'GORMAN SOLVES YOUR PROBLEMS TODAY AND EVERY DAY

MY TEENAGE KICKS

AFTER a sexy night of passion with my friend's son, my husband now seems about as exciting as the flu.

I can't bear him to touch me. All I can think about are my teenage lover's tender, probing hands, his darting tongue and magnificent manhood.

I lie on my bed and relive our wonderful night together over and over in my head. I touch myself as I remember his strong arms and sexy six-pack.

But then my weedy husband walks in and the temperature in the room drops by 20 degrees. He goes to touch me and I recoil in disgust. He mutters that he loves

Young lover turns me on and fancies me and I want to puke. I turn over and fantasise about the next time my lover and I will be together again. I dream about how he'll rub me and snog me.

He's texted me to say that he'll be in town again on the weekend of the 16th, so it's all systems go.

Cream

He's due to visit his mum first. But afterwards we're going to meet up in a hotel I've booked for another sublime night of fun. It's the only thing that's keeping me going. The last time I took along a can of squirty cream and covered him all over. I took great pleasure in licking every inch of him clean.

Then he pulled me into the bathroom where he worked me into a lather with the shower head and massage oil.

It was the stuff of sex manuals. He's only 19 but the guy showed more imagination in ten hours than my husband has ever done in ten years.

I'm 35 and can't believe that I'm experiencing such amazing sex at this time of my life. It's like I've been given a second chance. But because my lover now lives and works so far from here, I don't know what kind of future I can expect with him.

JANE SAYS: I understand this is a sexy time for you. You're having amazing fun with this gorgeous guy and can't quite believe your luck but please be careful.

Never forget that you are a married woman. Your lover may have the sexual stamina of an ox but you're simply not free to pursue him.

Also, I worry he may be using you. You've only been with him once yet you're talking about him as a future partner. But you have no idea who he sees or what he does for 99% of his time.

Your husband doesn't sound a bad sort and he doesn't deserve this.

My girl will not commit

MY girlfriend seems to be utterly terrified of the future.

I can't get her to look beyond the end of next week and she refuses to think about nights out or even holidays until the very last minute.

In the summer, we only booked our fortnight in Spain two days before the departure date because she just wouldn't make a decision.

It's the same with our relationship – I can't get her to talk about getting engaged, getting a flat, having kids or anything, because she refuses to give me a straight answer and commit.

This is extremely frustrating because I want to get on with my life.

JANE SAYS: Either your girlfriend is a commitment-phobe – or she's waiting for someone better to come along.

Which is it?

If she's not even willing to think about the future, then you've got to find out why.

It's not unreasonable to ask what your long-term prospects are – because if she has no intention of marrying you or having your children, you're clearly wasting your time.

EX'S HEX ON FELLA

MY boyfriend constantly talks about his ex-girlfriend – even when we're having sex.

He'll rant about how much he hates "the bitch", how she ruined his life and destroyed his faith in women.

The other night he insisted on spanking me and I'm sure that he was thinking about her as he took out his aggression on me.

The thing is, I'm worried that he protests too much and still has strong feelings for her. After all, they say that there's a fine line between love and hate.

JANE SAYS: Suggest to your boyfriend that you take some time out.

He really needs to get this woman out of his system and you really need to think about whether he is suitable as a boyfriend.

My impression is that he's troubled and deeply mixed up.

He's going out with you, yet obsessing about her.

His body is in one place but his mind is in another.

And don't be in too much of a hurry to get back with him again.

FOOTBALL ace Rio Ferdinand deserves an honour for campaigning against children carrying knives (Daily Star, November 28).

I hope other Premiership stars now come forward to support him.

These people are role models for the young and can do more to abolish knife culture than any MPs.

THELMA ANDREWS, Bristol.

AFTER watching The Jeremy Kyle Show, I've realised what genetic garbage is littering this country.

To go on this show, it seems you either need to be brain-dead, on benefit or obsessed with pregnancy tests. What rubbish.

D. R. BOUTLON, Henley, Oxon.

TRAIN fares soaring by up to 12.6% (Daily Star, November 29)? Not for me. Asking at my local station, I learned that my daily off-peak ticket to work will be rocketing by more than 25%. Bet the trains will STILL be dirty, overcrowded and late.

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC Hints & Tips

THE Dominican Republic is one half of the island Hispaniola, explored and claimed by Christopher Columbus in 1492. The western third of the island is Haiti, which was formed in 1804 after Spain recognised French rule over this area.

It's located in the middle of the Antilles – a chain of islands which form the dividing line between the Atlantic Ocean and the Caribbean. The wet season lasts from May to November. The average temperature is 25°C on the plains and the coast. The average temperature in the capital Santo Domingo in January is 23.9°C and 27.2°C in July.

It's recommended that you take precautions against hepatitis A, tetanus, diphtheria and yellow fever before you travel. A single entry visa is required which can be obtained on arrival in the Dominican Republic for about $10. When leaving, a departure tax of about $16 will need to be paid.

FAMED for its beaches and sunshine, the Dominican Republic is becoming a hot choice for celebs such as Brad Pitt and Vin Diesel.

and the drive to the four-star Bahia Principe San Juan resort.

With temperatures in the 20s, it was a welcome blast of heat matched by the warm welcome at the hotel and our air-conditioned room had a fruit basket, beach towels and T-shirts waiting for us.

Swaying

We met our rep, Farzana, the following day, who was full of information about tours. But exploring the stunning beachfront resort was as far got for the first few days.

Manicured lawns and swaying palms surround the village-style complex, which is on the north Atlantic coast of the Dominican Republic. Just a stone's throw from our room lay the never-ending stretch of golden beach that's kept immaculate on a daily basis.

Even if you don't fancy dipping your toe in the warm currents, there are four outdoor swimming pools and the main pool even has a swim-up bar. The more active can try windsurfing, kayaking, bodyboarding and snorkelling for free for one hour each day.

Being all-inclusive, food and drink was never in short supply. There's a 24-hour food and drink service and minibars are stocked daily. There's a main buffet restaurant where we ate breakfast and

Powerful piezoceramic transducers
High/Low frequency selectors

Now you can protect your family and property from rodents

ULTRA
SAFE - NO TOXINS

Now you can rid your home of nasty rodents and pests without using any hazardous chemicals. The powerful PestXit Ultra utilises newly developed ultrasonic technology with powerful piezo-ceramic transducers to make an environment of 1500 sq.ft extremely uncomfortable and uninhabitable for those unwanted pests. The more advanced PestXit Duo not only uses this latest ultrasound technology, but also incorporates contemporary electromagnetic technology, protecting your home up to 5000 sq.ft. Utilising the building's wiring, this unit works by sending wave vibrations through the walls directly to where the pests and larvae nest. The sonic pitch and vibration, which are harmless and inaudible to humans and household pets, will drive the pests out of your home. With High/Low frequency selectors and LED status indicators, simply plug in and let PestXit show pests the exit. Suitable for home, office, warehouse and restaurants.

- Just plug into any 3 pin socket and that's it
- Works 24/7 costing pennies a year to run

PARADISE FOUND:
Relax in luxury in the Dominican Republic sometimes lunch and dinner. There are four à la carte restaurants. All the bars and restaurants stay open until 11pm. But if you fancy a late-night tipple, head out to the Pueblo Principe – a street at the front of the hotel.

Idyllic

After several days in the sun we decided to see a bit more of the island. We took the minibus to the port of Santa Barbara de Samana, where we boarded a speedboat and crossed the bay to Los Haitises National Park. This nature reserve is famous for its sanctuary of birds.

We got an amazing bird's-eye view of the sanctuary before our guide took us to see caves which had ancient paintings that represent the gods of the Taino Indians, once native to the island.

But the highlight of the day was Cayo Levantado – better known as Bacardi Island. This island was beautiful with its white sands and warm turquoise waters surrounding tropical vegetation.

Greedy for more idyllic scenery we also went on a day trip to the aptly-named Paradise Island – the only coral island of the Dominican Republic. Another early start but boy was it worth it to snorkel out to see vividly-coloured fish.

I would definitely return to the Dominican Republic. It's a truly refreshing break.
